

Salmonella Solutions: Isolate, Identify and Save on Salmonella Culturing

Wednesday, June 26, 2024 | 2:00— 3:00pm ET

COURSE # 588-622-24

DESCRIPTION

This webinar will provide an overview of the challenges posed by culture independent diagnostic tests (CIDTs) in public health laboratories. The speaker will discuss best practices for isolation and identification of Salmonella spp. using a new workflow to maximize cost effectiveness and efficiency when culturing specimens.

AUDIENCE

This webinar is intended for public health laboratory professionals interested in learning more about isolation and identification of Salmonella from CIDT-positive specimens.

OBJECTIVES

After completing this webinar the participant will be able to:

- Assess the impact of CIDTs on public health laboratories and how they affect enteric disease surveillance
- Discuss changes over time from culture based identification methods to culture independent methods
- Describe the newly released workflow for isolating Salmonella
- Apply the guidelines discussed to enhance efficiency and cost effectiveness

SPEAKERS

Presenters

David Boxrud, MS, microbiologist, CDC

Moderator

Allison Gennety, BSc, enteric disease specialist, APHL
